CONKLING CALLS AT THE EXECUTIVE MANSION

Queen Victoria Expresses Pleasure at Garfield's Recovery—Greetings from Japan—Cheer and Happiness at the White House—Etc., etc.

[SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

Th[illegible] favorable symptoms in the president's condition [illegible]. He passed a comfortable night and this morning his pulse is 90, temperature a little below 100. Doctors this morning express themselves as satisfied with the progress of the case. The wound has just been dressed and the dressing showed that there had been a good discharge of pus from the draining pipe.

1 P. M.

The progress of the president's case continues satisfactory. Pulse 94, temperature, 99; respiration [illegible].

4:30 P. M.

Dr. Bliss reports that the president has had a [illegible] comfortable day than he has passed since he received his injury. His pulse since morning has ranged from 94 to 98, and is now 94, with temperature normal. Up to this hour there has been no recurrence of the daily fever. His condition continues in every way encouraging and satisfactory.

7 P. M.

The febrile rise this afternoon has been [illegible] and has not caused the president so much discomfort. His general condition is good; pulse [illegible], temperature 101, respiration 23.

Cheerful at the White House.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—There is a marked change in the scene about the executive mansion this morning compared with that which has prevailed ever since the president was wounded. Bright and cheerful expressions have taken the place of sad and mournful ones, and the encouraging statement made by the attending physicians relative to the ultimate recovery of the president have the effect to relieve the terrible anxiety which has been prevalent for nearly a fortnight.

Looks Hopeful.

One of the president's attending physicians said [illegible] morning that the attending fevers [illegible] and the patient still be strong enough to hold a [illegible] a fortnight. This is the strongest [illegible] of recovery of the president that has yet been vouchsafed by his medical attendants.

Conkling Calls.

Senator Conkling called alone at the executive mansion at 8 this evening, and left his card, but did not come inside the door.

Out of the Woods.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Postmaster General James telegraphs that the president is doing splendidly. He is surely out of the woods. Dr. Reyburn at 10:30 to-night said the president has been gaining constantly since yesterday and is better now than at any time heretofore. He has perspired very freely during the day and that fact is another evidence that the fever is breaking. The process of suppuration in the wound is going on satisfactorily and a longer drainage tube has been introduced to-night to facilitate the discharge. The president has taken more solid food than in any corresponding number of hours heretofore and he has eaten with relish. He has suffered no pain only when moved or in dressing his wound and continues bright and cheerful.

As to whether any seriously unfavorable symptom are likely to appear now that the surgical fever has passed, Dr. Reyburn said: "I should not like to promise an uninterrupted and unvarying [illegible] improvement, but at the same time I may say I think there is at present every prospect of the president's recovery."

At 1 P. M. the president is sleeping quietly and all his symptoms are satisfactory.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Dr. Hamilton was interviewed by a Times reporter last night upon the condition of President Garfield. He said that as consulting physician he could bear positive testimony to the honesty of Dr. Bliss and colleagues in preparing bulletins. The reports given are complete and perfectly reliable.

In the official bulletin Doctor there is reported every afternoon a rise in pulse and temperature [illegible] that a bad symptom? There is no reason for alarm. It is in fact but natural. Since the second day after the president received the wound the [illegible] increase has been marked. [illegible] expected. Any man's pulse ordinarily will beat faster in the evening than the morning, while if the [illegible] the day [illegible] will [illegible] Nobody has the [illegible] interpret [illegible] the [illegible].

[illegible] would have considered [illegible] probable. Not after sufficient time has elapsed to prove that the wound was [illegible].

Has sufficient time elapsed in his case? I am willing to say this. The chances are now all in favor of the president and there is no probability of death. The people have no cause for alarm. Gen. Garfield is sitting along excellently. There is no probability of death.

A Souvenir of the Shooting

[illegible], July 14.—The Star prints a communication from Nicholas Jackson of Annapolis who witnessed the shooting of Garfield and who was struck by the ball which penetrated the President's [illegible], but which having struck a metal [illegible] dropped into his shirt bosom, and is now in his possession. He left town immediately to prevent being detained as a witness and losing his salary and perhaps his place. He will [illegible] the bullet if assured it will be returned when the district attorney has no more use for it.

More Sympathy.

Many resolutions of sympathy have been received [illegible] from all quarters.

Expressions from Abroad.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—The secretary has received the following from Lowell at London:

[illegible] Secretary, Washington: I have received the following from the queen: "I wish to express my great satisfaction at the favorable account of the president and hope that he will soon be out of danger." LOWELL, Minister.

The Japanese minister handed the secretary of state the following telegram from his government:

To Japanese Minister, Washington: His majesty was greatly rejoiced to receive your dispatch announcing the steady recovery of the president and [illegible] you to present his hearty congratulations. WOCDYENS, Acting Minister Foreign Affairs, Tokio.

The following was received to-day:

[illegible]: The united French [illegible] of the city of New York desire to present to the president and his family their profound sympathy and best wishes for his speedy recovery on the occasion of their national holiday. EUGENE LEBUEF, President.

Address of Sympathy.

PARIS, July 14.—The American colony at Paris held a meeting yesterday for the purpose of drawing up an address of sympathy with President Garfield. The address will remain here ten days for signatures.

Another view of the Matter

NEW YORK, July 14.—Gov. Cornell, it is understood, takes a somewhat different view from some of the western governors with reference to the proposed day for thanksgiving for the president's recovery. His proposition is that, as his recovery is still subject to any chances, a day of fasting and prayer would be more in harmony with existing circumstances and the religious sentiment of the country. If his brother governors will contemplate the matter in the same light he will be glad to issue his proclamation to that effect, the day to be fixed by common agreement. There is reason to believe that private communications to this effect have been forwarded to the governors of Ohio and Illinois in answer to some inquiries as to what this state intends to [illegible].

Comment by the Post.

NEW YORK, July 14.—The Post leader addressed to [illegible] says: While fifty millions of Americans north and south, east and west, democrats and republicans, are anxiously and constantly watching and praying for the president's recovery there is a little band of politicians in this state with Conkling at the head of it who would see in the president's death and the accession of one of Conkling's friends to power, a chance for retrieval of their political fortunes, and who now block the election of senators in this state from day to day for the purpose of preserving that chance for Conkling.

MEXICO

Mexican Affairs.

[illegible] via Tucson, July 14.—There is no truth whatever in the statement published in Arizona that troops to the number of 5000 are here to help San Brannan. There are hardly 300 federal soldiers in the state and these are in the Arizona border to repress lawless [illegible]. The Yaquis were said two days ago to be on the war path but the news lacks confirmation. Sam Brannan is here and was paid $20,000 at the Mexican custom house. [illegible] by Newburn, the federal [illegible] permission to have his land surveyed. Brannan says that the land now [illegible] the same which he had been [illegible].

THE FRENCH FETE

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

[illegible], July 14.—The national fete was brilliantly [illegible]. The streets are thronged and [illegible] with flags. At about [illegible] a torchlight procession passed down [illegible] Opera. On reaching a certain point where the national colors of France and the United States were flying amicably together the procession [illegible] and sung the Marseillaise with great spirit, an immense crowd joining and crying "Vive la Republique! Vive la Republique!"

The fete of the Revolution and of the Republic was celebrated to-day. The whole city was brilliantly illuminated and being [illegible] weather superb and streets crowded with sight-seers, traffic suspended. Preparations for illumination by fireworks to-night very elaborate.

Celebration at Tunis.

TUNIS, July 14.—French buildings in the principal streets are decorated in honor of the national fete. Some anti French notices in Italian placarded about the walls were pulled down.

French Celebration in New York.

NEW YORK, July 14.—United French societies of this city and neighborhood to-day celebrated the storming of the Bastile.

Celebration at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 14.—French residents celebrated the anniversary of the falling of the Bastile to-day. Le Ministre Washburne spoke, predicting the perpetuity of the French republic.

Celebration at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, July 14.—French societies and citizens to-day celebrated the destruction of the Bastile, by salutes and a grand entertainment at West End including boat racing, vocal and instrumental concerts, balls and magnificent fireworks. The West End was beautifully decorated.

French Celebration at San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—The French and Swiss celebrated the day in elaborate style. [illegible] exercises [illegible] in the afternoon and at [illegible] to-night a torchlight parade of [illegible] torches; fireworks profuse. Many buildings were beautifully decorated.

The anniversary of the fall of the Bastile is being celebrated with much spirit by French citizens. There is a liberal display of flags and bunting, and many buildings were handsomely decorated. [illegible] procession marched from the corner of Montgomery and Washington at 1:30 through the principal streets to the Mechanics' pavilion where a literary and musical programme will be carried out during the afternoon. In the evening there will be a torchlight procession to Woodward's gardens, where there will be a display of fireworks and other festivities.

THE SANDWICH ISLANDS

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, July 14.—The Times editorially says: It is an open secret that Kalakua, king of the Hawaiian Islands is on a voyage around the world for the purpose of selling his kingdom. We have a right to regard with some uneasiness the trading expedition of King Kalakua. Virtually the United States has a mortgage upon the Sandwich Islands. That we have a monopoly of the trade of the islands both as regards imports and exports is well known. The government is independent of all other nations, it is true, and it is true that the government is nominally native, but it is also undeniable that the worthy gentleman who is king of the Hawaiian Islands by virtue of his descent from a head chief who seized the government at a time [illegible] figure head, and that he is less [illegible] than constitutional kings usually are. The annexationists in the islands are naturally American planters and traders. They [illegible] have their property interests transferred to the dominion of a European power. They long for the time when they will not be obliged as now to submit to pay [illegible] duty on their own products [illegible] the [illegible] country. They argue that nearly everything that the Hawaiian Island export goes to the United States and nearly everything which is imported into the islands comes from the same republic. If annexation ever arrives it must take the islands to the United States. That this step would be denounced by foreign residents who are not American is also true, but in any event although our government cannot afford to promote any policy of annexation other governments of the world should be notified that an attempt on their part to acquire the Sandwich Islands by purchase or otherwise would be regarded by the United States as an unfriendly act. If we are to foster and maintain a great commerce between the Pacific coast and Asia [illegible] naval and military station at the Hawaiian Islands. We [illegible] already [illegible] of this [illegible] treaties [illegible] King Kalakua really wanted to sell his kingdom [illegible] the United States [illegible] the shortest way to [illegible] to sell out to a European power.

The Prison Investigation

In the prison investigation yesterday the case for the prosecution closed. Mr. Owens reserving the right to call certain witnesses hereafter. The commissioners informed Owens that he was justified in the information he had received in publicly calling attention to the charges and Owens admitted that except in the case of permitting convict Gows undue liberties, his charges were not sustained by the evidence. Donald Sutherland for many years general foreman for J. C. Johnson & Co., of this city in the prison, gave some very interesting testimony regarding the general system of the prison, holding that it has never been a reformatory institution, but on the contrary a school of crime. After the war [illegible] defects are considered the commission will go [illegible] to a full investigation of the general prison system.

Charged with Attempt to Poison

SAN JOSE, July 14.—This morning Chief of Police Haskell arrested Albert Sly at J. M. Owens' ranch [illegible] south of the city, [illegible] by Irving Isham, charging him with putting strychnine into 40 gallons of milk for the purpose of poisoning complainant. Mr. Owens and his family together with all their farm hands escaped being poisoned by the merest accident.

ASTRONOMICAL SCIENCE.

Several Facts, and a Beautiful Theory with them

[New York Times]

It seems a small how many of the crude notions as to the heavenly bodies which formerly prevailed among ignorant people and were accepted by the astronomers have finally been admitted and announced by the latter as valuable scientific discoveries. Ignorant people have always maintained that the sun is a ball of fire, basing their belief on the fact that the sun gives out heat. This idea was for a long time extremely distasteful to the astronomers. They felt that to admit that the sun was a ball of fire would be a concession to common sense, and accordingly they invented the theory that the sun is a cool and comfortable planet surrounded by a [illegible] envelope [illegible] which in turn is surrounded by another envelope giving [illegible] For many years this was the [illegible] but latterly the astronomers have changed their views and now inform us that [illegible] the sun is [illegible] of the very hottest kind of fire.

Then there are the nebulæ, which a few [illegible] astronomers [illegible] [illegible] Dr. Hahn has been examining [illegible] stones with the microscope, and has found in them large quantities of entities [illegible] fossils. They are mostly marine plants and animals. Among them are coral, [illegible] sponges and [illegible] jellyfish. Dr. Hahn has prepared [illegible] hundred of these fossils [illegible] them with [illegible] written [illegible] about them. There can be no doubt that his fossils are genuine ones, and the conclusions which he draws from them will be generally accepted. He [illegible] that marine animals cannot exist without water, and that hence these coral-bearing meteorites must have come from a place where there was once water; that plants cannot exist without oxygen and that the [illegible] sponges grew in a place where there was more or less atmosphere; and he concludes that the meteorites in question originally formed a part of a large planet which burst into millions of small fragments.

While it seems rash to doubt the conclusions of so eminent a man as Dr. Hahn, it may be suggested that instead of forming part of a large planet, the meteorites examined by him may have constituted little worlds by themselves. The fossils found in them are all microscopic, the coral for example being perfectly formed and yet so small as to be invisible with all a high magnifying power. There is nothing [illegible] in the supposition that [illegible] should not content ourselves with shutting them up; we should exterminate them, and properly. But the maniac of the Guiteau pattern is not a mere automaton. He is fully aware of the consequences of all his acts and he can distinguish perfectly between right and wrong. There should therefore be no difference made between him and sane criminals, but he should be punished without hesitation. It is much better to hang lunatics than to permit them to murder sane people, and brain disease ought not to be admitted as a plea in cases of homicide save under the most exceptional circumstances.

THE RESPONSIBILITY OF INSANE

[illegible] pursue [illegible] paths of self indulgence [illegible] remember that [illegible] you [illegible] the pleasant highways of temperance, virtue [illegible] and Christian manliness, he shall keep [illegible] dwell in peace [illegible].

FATHER AND SON

If you wish to train up your child in the way he should go, just skirmish ahead on that line yourself, said wise Josh Billings, and if he was not addressing fathers or thinking of boys he ought to have been. The writer was present once at a social religious meeting when a very large man with a very large nose and no doubt a very large heart also arose and used his space of time to tell what a good mother he had, and how her influence had guided him, and finished with an exhortation to all mothers to make good men of their boys.

The divines followed in a similar strain and ended with the same exhortation, and all the fathers settled themselves more comfortably into their seats, and all the sisters bowed their heads with meek faces as if to the taking up [illegible] that flatteringly laid upon their [illegible] shoulders. Not at all, for one sat [illegible] upright and [illegible] speech to [illegible] those [illegible] shirking the greatest responsibility God ever called them to bear.

Because some mothers [illegible] with mighty faith and powerful will have borne their sons triumphantly over the quicksands of youthful temptations and planted them firmly on the pleasant upland of righteous manhood, shall it be demanded of every frail woman to whom God has given a son that she do the same? No, with equal justice it might be demanded of every woman that she write books like Mrs. Stowe, entrance large audiences like Miss Willard and Anna Dickinson, or be a brilliant newspaper correspondent like Mary Clemmer.

What would [illegible] mothers [illegible] when weighed against the father's example? "My mother don't smoke; it is bad for [illegible] heart, bad for the purse, bad for the morals, and the pleasure it affords is trifling compared to the evil it works."

What does the [illegible] know about smoking? [illegible] the boy [illegible]. Father smokes and I'm going to, too.

Don't spend your evenings about the bar room and village store, pleads the troubled mother; the conversation there is not such as I wish you to listen to.

"What does mother know about bar room talk?" questions the boy [illegible] at home reading the Lady's or darning stockings. Father is there and I'm going.

One [illegible] year old boy said: "I [illegible]"

SIGNS of CATARRH.

No other such loathsome, treacherous and [illegible] malady curses mankind. One fifth of our Children die of disease [illegible] by its Infectious Poison, and one fourth of living men and women drag out miserable existences from the same cause. While asleep, the impurities in the nostrils are necessarily swallowed into the stomach and inhaled into the lungs to poison every part of the system.

Dr. Wei De Meyer's Catarrh Cure absorbs the purulent virus and kills the seeds of poison in the farthest parts of the system. It will not only relieve, but certainly cure Catarrh at any stage. It is the only remedy which in our judgment has ever yet really cured a case of Chronic Catarrh.

LITERARY PROBLEMS.

[Pall Mall Gazette]

Roughly speaking, we [illegible] say that in the seventeenth century [illegible] make a living out of literature. In the eighteenth [illegible] men could make a fair living; in the nineteenth many can make a very decent income. Can we say that the supply has improved with the demand? The trade has undoubtedly increased and multiplied beyond calculation. But if we speak of the art he would be a bold man who should say that there is any improvement at all. Have we now any work to set beside Shakespeare and Spenser and Bacon, with their minor stars of the great constellation? Is the literature of the present day, setting aside two or three men of genius, who belong rather to the previous than to this generation, to be compared to that of the great epochs? Is it even clearly better than the comparative dead level of the end of the last century? How many of the living writers under 60 will be read a century hence? I will not say, for I do not believe that literature is really declining, nor maintain what some people hold, that we may trace here as elsewhere the tendency of democracy to substitute a mass of commonplace respectability for a sparse growth of more exalted excellence. The problem is far too complex to be answered in any off hand formula. But it is at least plain that the finer growths of the literary soil are not multiplied in proportion to the [illegible] manuring of the field. It is said, and I suppose truly, that a successful dramatist at the present day could make an income at which the mouths of all the old dramatists of Grub street would water. Even in the last century playwriting was by far the most profitable part of the trade [illegible] an author could turn his hand. Have our plays then improved since the last we [illegible] the sole record of the lives of some of the most popular dramatists is due to the extreme difficulty which they experienced in raising a loan of £10? Have at the present day have perhaps more literary value than is admitted by the persons who are always declaiming about the decline of the stage. This, however, is at least clear: that throughout the seventeenth century the drama represents the highest literary achievements of the first writers of the time; that in the next century there are only some half dozen plays which have any claim to be in the first rank of literature, and that in the present century, putting aside [illegible] plays [illegible] Van Artevelde, not really intended for the stage, there are none. We could hardly apply a more [illegible] experiment to prove that money payment cannot create a [illegible] literature.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.

Law follows public opinion. Public opinion is never the creature of law. But this principle is universally forgotten in extreme temperance legislation. It is argued, for example, that since the law forbids theft and murder, makes these acts crimes and punishes them with just severity, why can not the law also forbid liquor selling, make it a crime and enforce penalties therefor? Because theft and murder are crimes per se, while liquor selling is not. There is no public opinion that sustains theft and murder, while there is public opinion that permits liquor selling—that is, in most communities. It is not the liquor sellers, but the liquor drinkers, who make this opinion. The sellers are called into existence by a demand from the buyers. Pretty much all effort for temperance reform begins, therefore, at the wrong end. The only possible way of diminishing the sale of liquors is to reduce the number of buyers. It is useless to fight the sellers while the buyers keep up the demand. Stringent temperance legislation of the prohibitory sort never has been and never can be enforced except in communities where there is little or no demand for liquors, and where consequently there is no need of any prohibitory law.

These facts are fundamental. So obvious and so true are they that, to one who looks at this question without sinking his judgment in his just detestation of the evils of the liquor traffic, it is a constant wonder that they are overlooked. Yet the main part of temperance effort is devoted to the scheme of trying to stop the seller, instead of trying to stop the buyer. But it is apparent that so long as there are considerable numbers who want to buy, just so long will there be sellers enough to supply the demand. The buyer is the cause, the seller is the effect; and under these circumstances we might as well try to cure a city of filth diseases by treating the prevalent fevers and neglecting the conditions producing them, as to undertake to stop the evils of the liquor traffic by concentrating our main efforts upon the traffic itself and neglecting the source and cause of it.

But how is the demand for strong drink to be diminished? This is the real temperance problem. It rests with those who have the control and training of youth; with those who can exert personal and social influence to make drunkenness, and even tippling, disreputable; with those who by precept, example or any kind of influence, can discountenance the habit of drink and help to put it under the ban. Temperance reform is largely a social movement. In the times of our fathers there could be no gathering of a social nature where the jug did not go round. It was present whenever the neighbors assembled to erect the log cabin, to roll the logs in the clearing, or to strip the corn at the end of the harvest. It was present on "muster" days, and was not kept in concealment even at the camp-meeting. Hospitable entertainment of a friend included the offer of a dram. It was rare to find a man who totally refused, and such an one was looked on as a soft, babyish fellow—a milksop. From all this there has been a great change. The well nigh universal custom of fifty years ago is now in almost universal discredit. From a vast majority of the homes of the land liquors are entirely banished. It is kept out of the sight of children, and they are taught to detest and avoid it. Increasing numbers of young women are taught to discountenance and reject young men whose temperance principles, and practice too, are not entirely clear. In all this lies the hope of real temperance reform.

In the Pacific Christian Advocate of this week we find an editorial paragraph on temperance effort in relation to politics in the state of Ohio. The editor, who always puts his statements with clearness and force, says that "in the contest for the governorship of Ohio the present governor, Foster, is sure to be 'snowed under' by the ballots of the temperance people;" that "Ohio is too sterling a Christian and temperance state to have a candidate on a platform which means less than nothing on the temperance issue, elected;" and that his defeat will be "a premonition of other like results if the political parties ignore the temperance question in their platforms and candidates."

The present state of the temperance question in Ohio and its relation to the politics of the state, will, if examined, afford an illustration of the erroneous methods habitually pursued by those who force the temperance issue in its prohibitory form, and rely on legal enactments to support prohibition where there is no public opinion to enforce them.

Thirty years ago the state of Ohio adopted a constitution which contains a clause declaring that "No license to traffic in intoxicating liquors shall hereafter be granted in this state, but the general assembly may by law provide against the evils resulting therefrom." Frequent efforts have been made to secure legislation which would promise the impossible result of prohibition in the state. But Ohio contains an enormous city population, largely of foreign birth, among whom the consumption of liquors is general and enormous. The idea of successfully prohibiting the sale of liquors in such cities as Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo, Dayton, and a score of other places in the state, is utopian to the last degree. While no liquor licenses have been granted since the present constitution was adopted, advantage has been taken of the clause permitting the general assembly to provide against the evils resulting from the traffic, and a heavy special tax has been laid upon it. At the last session of the legislature a bill was offered which, had it become a law, would have required the payment of an average tax of about $300 by each liquor seller in the state. This was approved by many practical temperance men as the best that could be done. That is, it was in their judgment as radical a measure as could be enforced. But it was objectionable alike to the free whisky men and to the extreme temperance men. The former wanted no interference, and the latter wanted absolute prohibition. Between them they succeeded in defeating a bill that would have checked the evils of unrestricted traffic, and would probably have closed up a large number of low drinking holes throughout the state. Three fourths of the republican members of the legislature supported the bill. It was opposed solidly by the democratic members, by some of the republican members from the large cities, and by the ultra prohibitionists. Extremes met in a common cause against practical temperance legislation.

When Gov. Foster was renominated some weeks ago the republican party declared in favor of restrictive legislation but did not adopt the platform of absolute prohibition, partly because such a declaration would have been both fatuous and impotent (as it could not be enforced) and partly because it did not wish to invite certain and overwhelming defeat. The prohibitionists thereupon were displeased, and it is said will run a separate ticket. This, however, they have done almost every year for a long time. But the democratic party is now in the field. It has this week nominated its candidates upon a platform which pronounces against all interference with or restriction of the liquor traffic. If Gov. Foster shall be "snowed under" it will not be "by the ballots of temperance people," as our friend of the Advocate puts it, but by the ballots of the free-whisky democracy, who will be enabled to win by this diversion of impracticable temperance reformers in their behalf. In such case what will be the real gain to the cause of temperance reform?

Since we can not create a public opinion by legislation, but since legislation (if effective) must itself be the product of public opinion, and since public opinion is a growth depending on social, moral, religious and domestic influences and even on physical conditions and surroundings, it ought to be apparent where the real roots of this problem lie. Temperance is a virtue, and like every other virtue it must have its growth from within. It can not be enforced from without. Intemperance is one of the evils that law can not cure; and the reason is that law doesn't make man. On the contrary man makes law, yet that law is nothing—it is simply ignored or disregarded—when it does not accord with public opinion, that is, when it does not agree with the interests, wishes, feelings and wants of a large part of the community. Take an example in another direction. So vitiated has public opinion here become, through the corruptions of politics, that it is doubtful if the penalty for bribery in elections could be enforced in any case, no matter how directly proven. Yet this is one of the gravest of actual crimes. Suppose we had a prohibitory liquor law. Does any one seriously suppose there would be the least possibility of enforcing it in Portland? License is the utmost limit of restriction that such a community will bear. But still there is a work for all temperance reformers. Let them strive constantly to make drinking less respectable; to bring personal influence and social pressure against it; to combine against it the forces of education, morality and religion. It is the buyers who support the evil. Earnest effort to diminish the number of buyers will bear fruit; but expenditure of wrath on the sellers is effort wasted. The whole philosophy of temperance reform is summed up in two words—diminish the demand.

PUNISHMENT OF PRESIDENT MURDERERS.

Under the fear that the charge of imitating monarchical forms would be laid against us, we have neglected to provide any special penalty for murder and attempts to murder persons at the head of the state. If President Garfield lives, the only penalty provided by the code of the district of Columbia for the attempt to murder him is the mild one for the offense of assault with intent to kill. The New York Times says: "No constitution or law makes a deadly attack on the head of the government, involving possible disasters to the nation, a greater crime than a similar assault on the most worthless brawler in the streets. If we are to be confronted with the possibility, which our fathers were not disposed to contemplate at all, of the assassination of the chief magistrates of the country from political or personal motives, or even from sheer freak, it may be desirable, as suggested in our Washington dispatches, to make the attempt treason, punishable with death. The force of the penalty as a deterrent may be questioned, but it would at least satisfy a popular sense of justice."

The press of the country is discussing this subject with great earnestness. The universal judgment is that the law in this respect falls short of what it ought to be. The Chicago Tribune, for example, puts it thus: "The president of the United States is for the time being something of more concern to the republic than any ordinary citizen. He represents, while president, the whole people—the nation. An act of violence against his person is an insult to the country he represents. He is the chosen ruler of the whole people, clothed by them with their authority, and to treat him with insult or violence is to insult him officially and as the representative of the people. The murder of the person holding the office of president is an act of violence against the government of the United States. It may change the whole character and policy of the country. It may result in removing from office a president of the people's choice and delivering the government to another. It may result even in the destruction of the government. The man who murders or seeks to murder the chief magistrate of the nation should be treated as a traitor to the national peace and union and all his associates and accomplices should with him meet the fate of traitors."

This is not putting it too strong. The law should make the murder or an attempt to murder the president or vice-president an extraordinary crime, and should provide for it an extraordinary penalty. That the constitution makes no provision for punishing this crime may be due to the fact that such an atrocity was never anticipated by its makers. But we have had by terrible experience too much proof that some special provision for personal protection of the president and vice president is a necessity, and Congress ought not to delay it. Death should be the penalty, even if the attempt to murder fails. For those half demented reprobates whose frenzy takes the form of president-killing, perpetual imprisonment with monthly doggings might be wholesome, as it would probably discourage attempts to imitate their "frantic" pursuit of the blood of presidents.

A lot of kind people in the east, who evidently don't believe virtue to be its own reward, are subscribing money with the purpose of presenting a quarter of a million dollars to Mrs. Garfield. The gift is to be made in consideration of her many excellent qualities as a woman and a wife, her admirable devotion in the present crisis being the suggestion and impulse in the matter. We hope that Mrs. Garfield will not accept this gift. Neither herself nor her family is in need, nor is there any prospect of their being so. As the reward of wifely devotion, the gift cannot be accepted with propriety. While Mrs. Garfield's conduct has been truly worthy and admirable, it has not gone beyond the line of wifely duty. Almost every wife in the land has many times over acted the devoted part which in Mrs. Garfield the nation lauds as heroic and noble. It is heroic and noble, but it is not extraordinary, and to pay Mrs. Garfield for it is in bad taste. There is another consideration. The head of this nation should not accept gifts, and a gift to Mrs. Garfield is a gift to the president. The duties of the president and his relations to the capitalists of the country are such that he should be free from any obligations to them. Besides, it is an unpleasant thing to see the chief magistrate of this nation the recipient of charity. Should Mrs. Garfield decline to accept the proposed gift, and the generous and impulsive people who have subscribed it find themselves in a pinch as to disposition of the fund, General Grant no doubt could be induced to relieve their embarrassment.

It may be that nothing but literature, mathematics, etc., should be taught in our public schools and colleges. Forty years ago that was not the rule, not the theory. Then pupils were trained in deportment and morals, and were taught self-reliance and self-control. Intelligence without moral discipline counts for nothing. "The boy is father to the man," and the boy who never learns to obey will never learn to command—even to command himself—though he have all the education that can be derived from schools, colleges and books.

Gov. Thayer seems to be growing wiser. He now acknowledges the existence of a Supreme Being. Bacon tells us that a little knowledge inclines man to skepticism, but more knowledge brings him back to religion. Also the poet Waller says:

> The soul's dark cottage, battered and decayed,
> Lets in new light through chinks that time has made.

FRIDAY MORNING, JULY 15, 1881.

OREGONIAN AT THE RESORTS.—Parties can have THE DAILY OREGONIAN sent to them at any of the seaside resorts, at $1 per month, on leaving their address at the business office of this paper.

OREGONIAN AT ASTORIA.—Extra copies of the DAILY at E. E. Holden's, for the accommodation of visitors.

PREACHING IN ENGLISH.—The Telegram says: "Rev. A. E. Fridrichsen has been for ten years laboring to build up a church of the Scandinavian Evangelical Lutheran church in this city and in East Portland. About ten years ago a little church was built in Stephens' addition, in East Portland, but it has met with but little success. At the same time the pastor has been preaching to a congregation in this city at the old Academy building. All these services have been held in the Scandinavian language. Recently the venerable pastor, Fridrichsen, has been advised to preach in the English language. This he reluctantly consented to do, and in the evening, first Sunday in this month, he preached his first English sermon. Last Sunday night it was announced he would preach again. Instead of a dozen, as heretofore, he had a house full of all classes of people, and he is very much encouraged in his work. The church building has been raised, and a good basement put underneath, in which will be a parsonage, and the hopes of a brighter day for this struggling little congregation are very high."

ANOTHER BURGLAR ARRESTED.—When Rice, the burglar, was taken to the county jail yesterday afternoon, he was immediately recognized by Jailor Terry McManus as one of the men who roomed at his house on D street. Search in the room Rice occupied revealed a kit of burglar's tools, two masks, several revolvers, $260 in coin and greenbacks. He had a room-mate, watch was set on him last night. At 12 o'clock he came in and was arrested by Policeman Barry and brought to police headquarters. A gold watch, gold sleeve buttons, a three link gold pin and $120 in money were found on his person. He gave his name as McMahon. He is 5 feet 7 inches high, weighs about 145 pounds, has dark eyes, and speaks with a strong Irish brogue. The authorities are quite certain that he is one of the men engaged in the bold robberies reported last week.

VIOLATING THE PASSENGER ACT.—Capt. James Harney of the British ship Taunton, was arrested yesterday by the U. S. marshal and brought before the U. S. district court. The defendant was charged with violating the law which regulates the number of passengers allowed to be carried by each vessel. It was charged that Capt. Harney brought to this port from Hongkong, more Chinese passengers than he was allowed by the law. On being arraigned in court, the defendant entered a plea of guilty. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $700. Execution, by order of the court, was suspended three months, or until the pleasure of the president of the United States can be known on defendant's application for a pardon.

PATRIOTIC FRENCH.—The patriotic French citizens of Portland spared no effort yesterday to celebrate in a becoming manner the recurring anniversary of the destruction of the bastile. In addition to holding appropriate literary and musical exercises at Turn Halle last evening, many tri-colored flags were displayed by residents in various portions of the city. A very pretty display of flags and French emblems was made at the corner of Washington and Second streets, over the place of business of Mr. A. Labbe, French vice consul, and also in front of the restaurant on Oak street.

THE WHEAT CROP.—Mr. John Muir, general passenger and freight agent of the O. R. & N. Co., returned yesterday from a trip up the Columbia, where he made thorough investigations regarding the probable amount of wheat the company would have to move this fall. The whole crop east of the Cascade mountains will be nearly 100,000 tons, of which about 75,000 tons will be exported, the remainder being held for seed and home consumption. The surplus of this year will exceed that of last year thirty to forty per cent.

VERDICT SET ASIDE.—The jury in the state circuit court in the case of State of Oregon vs. Andrew Sturgis, indicted for violation of the fishing law, has returned a verdict of guilty. This case involves a very important question of law, and is designed as a test case. In order that the questions may be brought before the supreme court and decided, Judge Stott set aside the verdict yesterday afternoon. This will enable the prosecuting attorney to appeal the case to the supreme court.

PROPOSED NEW QUARTERS.—An ordinance was introduced in the city council last night by the committee on streets and public property, authorizing the renting of eleven rooms in the second story of the new addition to Union block, corner Second and Stark streets, at a monthly rental of $122 50. It is proposed to devote two rooms to the mayor, two to the auditor and clerk, two to the city attorney, two to the surveyor, two for a council room, and one for committees.

OPERA COMPANY COMING.—Mr. F. W. Strechan, manager of the New Market Theater, telegraphed from San Francisco as follows yesterday to Mr. Edgar Coursen: "Book Lester's opera company for July 25th. It is a splendid combination of 20 vocalists. The repertoire will consist of 'Child of the Regiment,' 'Orpheus,' 'Gerofle-Gerola,' 'Fatinitza,' and others. Ben Owen is director. Chas. Shultz, advance agent, will leave on Friday for Portland."

HELD TO ANSWER.—The case of James Rice, charged with entering the residence of Mrs. J. W. Snyder with burglarious intent, came up for examination before Judge Stearns yesterday afternoon. After hearing the testimony of several witnesses, the court held the defendant to await the action of the grand jury, fixing his bonds at $1000. Of course Rice failed to furnish the required bonds, and now gazes sadly between bars.

FUNERAL OF MR. VINTON.—All that was mortal of Francis Vinton was laid to rest in Lone Fir cemetery yesterday in the lot of Mrs. R. P. Mead. Very impressive services were held in Trinity, Bishop Paddock and Dr. Rosenberg officiating. The following gentlemen of the Handel and Haydn society acted as pall bearers: Messrs. Philip C. Schuyler, Wm. Peabody, John Gill, Arthur Wilson, J. B. Wyatt and W. H. Kinross.

LAUNCHED.—The new government dredge was launched yesterday afternoon from the ways, a short distance above the foot of L street, in East Portland. The dredger has been towed over and anchored to the bridge pier, so as to be hauled alongside the new, to which some of the old machinery will be transferred. The new hull is a monster of strength and considerably larger than the old one.

HORSES ARRIVED.—The Dalles boat yesterday brought down from eastern Oregon the following horses: Patsey Duffy, a five-year-old bay gelding; Nora Winters, a three-year-old bay filly; Ordinance, a three-year-old bay filly, and Screwdriver, a gray gelding. These speeders came from Baker City, and will participate in the races which will commence on the 26th inst.

PROGRESS IN RAILROAD WORK.—The O. R. & N. Co. have now 2700 men at work on the grade, between the Cascades and The Dalles. The track has been laid nine miles up the river from the lower Cascades and the grading will be done to Hood river 26 miles within 10 days. Bridge and trestle work and track laying will follow the grade closely.

F. M. A. SOCIETY.—At the meeting of the Firemen's Mutual Aid Society, the following officers were elected: President, Geo. C. Sears; vice president, Wm. Lindberg; Secretary, Chas. J. Christie; Trustee, Joseph Simon. The society adjourned until next Sunday evening, at which time committees will be arranged.

UP THE ROAD.—Mr. Cotton Clark, business manager of the Mendelssohn Quintette club of Boston, left last evening on the south-bound train for points up the valley. Before returning, Mr. Clark will visit Salem, Albany, Corvallis, and Eugene City, at which places the club expects to appear.

ELECTION.—Division No. 2, A. O. H., elected the following officers last night for the ensuing year: President, M. Casey; vice-president, J. A. Kelly; secretary, M. Flanagan; treasurer, R. McGovern; sergeant-at-arms, T. Ryan.

CONTRACTS AWARDED.—Yesterday afternoon, the committee on streets and public property awarded the following contracts for sewers: B street, to Leslie Cook; F street, to S. Wilcox; Yamhill street, to B. Oaken.

THROUGH TO DAYTON.—The track of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company's line from Walla Walla to Dayton, W. T., will be finished at noon today. The road will be open to travel next week.

MEETING OF REGENTS.—Judge Matthew P. Deady leaves this morning for Eugene to attend the annual meeting of the board of regents of the state university which will be held this evening.

BALLOT NO. 200

Mayor Thompson to act as Mayor ad interim without power to appoint—Regular Council Proceedings.

Ballot number 200 cast in the second ward on the 20th of last month will not be forgotten soon. It is now and will remain a historic ballot. Whether it shall be thrown out or whether counted for Joseph Simon, will decide who shall be the head of government in Portland for the coming three years.

The city council met at 7:30 last night, President Hewett in the chair, and every member present.

After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved, Councilman Raleigh offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, Grave doubts have arisen as to whether Joseph Simon or D. P. Thompson was lawfully elected mayor of Portland at the election held June 20, 1881. And

WHEREAS, The matter having been thoroughly examined into, by the final arbitrators of the case, the common council of the city of Portland, who have carefully recounted the votes and heard the arguments of both sides in regard to any irregularities in the counting of the ballots, and any dispute in regard to the ballots themselves, and

WHEREAS, Said council are still in doubt as to whether the disputed ballot, numbered 200, should be counted for either contestant, if at all. Therefore be it

Resolved, That the question of how said ballot is to be counted, if counted at all, be and is hereby left to the decision of the chief justice of the state of Oregon, the Hon. William P. Lord, with request that he decide the same and report his holding to the council in writing as speedily as possible; and further that the auditor of this city is ordered to forward to said chief justice of the state of Oregon, the before mentioned ballot, with a certified copy of this resolution and the said chief justice of the state of Oregon is hereby empowered to hear any arguments from lawyers on either side he may see fit.

Resolved, Further, That Mayor D. P. Thompson (acting until his successor is duly elected and qualified as provided by law) be and is hereby enjoined from making any nomination to fill any offices under his control as mayor of Portland until above mentioned decision is received by said council.

Resolved, Further, That if said chief justice shall decide that said ballot 200 be counted for said Simon, then he is hereby declared the legally elected mayor of this city and entitled to said office as provided by law, and if said chief justice declares that said ballot be not counted, then the office shall be filled by the present incumbent, D. P. Thompson, as as provided by law until his successor is elected and qualified.

Mr. Raleigh moved its adoption.

Pending roll call Andrus claimed the right to vote. The chair asked him to abstain from voting for the present.

The roll call resulted: Ayes—Chittenden, Gerdes, Hewett and Raleigh; nays—Honeyman, Keller, Kellogg and Nicklin.

Gerdes insisted on Andrus being allowed to vote. Honeyman objected.

Andrus said: "On the 2d of June I made an affidavit that I had no money at stake on the June election. I don't think there is a man within the sound of my voice who believes I would swear to a lie. It would be quite as legal and just to stand at the second ward polls with a shotgun and deprive me of casting a ballot as to bar me from voting in this council. Every councilman has his opinion on this matter, and I don't object to his expressing such opinion. In order that the matter of a recount might be harmoniously settled I withdrew. I now claim my right to vote."

The chair—councilman Andrus was by a vote of the council barred from voting on all questions relating to the recount; but an unexpected question has arisen which will take the matter out of the hands of the council, and I think Mr. Andrus entitled to vote.

Andrus voted aye, and the resolution was declared adopted.

Mayor Thompson then took the chair, and the council returned to the regular order of business.

BOARD OF FIRE DELEGATES.

The board of delegates of the Portland fire department met last evening at the police court room. Mr. Jos. Simon, the president of the board, not being present at the opening of the meeting, the board was called to order by R. M. McMasters, the secretary.

On motion A. R. Tanner was chosen chairman pro tem.

The secretary proceeded to call the roll of members present, after which the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The secretary reported that during the past month he had received $12 from different sources.

Communications were received from the secretary of Willamette No. 1 notifying the board that J. D. Scharff had served seven years as an active member of that company and that he deserved to have an exempt certificate and a badge; that J. O'Connor had tendered his resignation as a member of that company, which had been accepted; that at a regular meeting of that company the following persons were duly elected members: H. J. Harbaugh, J. S. Struble and Ed. Johnson. In each case the communications were referred to the appropriate committees.

Communications were received from the secretary of Multnomah No. 2, informing the board that at a regular meeting James Harkey, Wm. Gilroy and Joseph Morrison were duly elected members of that company. The proper reference was made of the communication.

From the secretary of Protection, No. Four, informing the board that the following persons were elected members of that company: A. Fellows, D. Campbell, and Jos. Allen; also, that O. Streeling had resigned as a member of that company and that the same had been accepted, referred to the proper committee.

A communication was also received from No. Three which stated that at a regular meeting of that company the former action taken in relation to the expulsion of Mr. J. S. Keller and Mr. Henry Weber was reconsidered, that those persons had by a vote of the company been reinstated, that all entries which had been made in the secretary's books relating to their expulsion should be erased.

The board then proceeded to the reconsideration of the vote adopting the previous report of the action of No. Three's. After reconsidering the vote, it was moved that the communication be returned to the company, which carried unanimously.

The resignation of T. A. Sutherland as a member of the board of delegates from Columbian No. Three, was read and accepted.

A communication was received from the secretary of Tiger No. Five, stating that Jos. Kennedy had been duly elected a member of that company, also that Felix Landers and Charles Vellum had each been active members of that company for seven years, and were entitled to receive exempt certificates and badges.

From the secretary of Hook and Ladder No. One, informing the board that R. Oftener and Frank Keller had been elected members of that company.

On motion, the board adjourned.

MILITARY AND PERSONAL.

[Vancouver Independent.]

Gen. O. O. Greene will leave on Friday for a trip to the sound.

Capt. Saml T. Cushing, Sub. Dept. Chief C. m. Sub., started for Fort Lapwai on official business on Tuesday morning.

Lieut. Thos. T. Knox, 1st cavalry, has been ordered from Fort Walla Walla to Fort McDermit, for duty with Capt. Bernard's company.

Private Paul Weinlich, of the ordnance department, Vancouver barracks, has been granted a furlough of four months with permission to cross the ocean.

Lieut. S. C. Robertson, 1st cavalry, has been granted leave of absence for one year, for the purpose of attending a course of instruction at the military school at Saumur, France.

Lieut. Wm. Moffatt, 21 infantry, has been nominated by his regimental commander as the officer from his regiment for a two year's tour at the military school at Fort Leavenworth.

Mr. F. A. Wagner, formerly regimental [illegible] of the 21st infantry, has received the appointment to the vacant clerkship in the adjutant general's office at department headquarters, and has entered upon his duties.

Of the 53 graduates of the military academy of this year's class, 15 have been assigned as additional 2d lieutenants, there not being vacancies enough to provide for the whole class. The 21st infantry has no graduate, Lieut. [illegible] Brandon from Idaho, and the 21st has one, Lieut. Francis J. Kernan.

RELIGIOUS NOTES.

[Sentinel.]

Rev. Father Bronsgeest, lately of Canyon City, has been appointed rector of St. Peter's church in place of Rev. L. Goudon.

Rev. Father Archambault has so far recovered from his recent severe illness as to be able to return to this city. The reverend gentleman, however, is not yet entirely recovered, but is convalescing rapidly now.

Rev. J. S. White, rector of St. James' church, McMinnville, left yesterday morning for his home in Montreal, Canada. The reverend father has asked and obtained leave of absence in order to regain the health which a trip overland to Montreal will contribute to entirely restore.

In spite of the great age and infirmity of Most Reverend Archbishop Blanchet his grace still celebrates the sacrifice of the mass, and in the absence of the regular chaplain, Reverend Father Thiebaud, has even officiated at benediction on Sunday afternoon at St. Vincent's hospital.

A synod has been promulgated by His Grace Archbishop Seghers to convene in this city on Wednesday, August 10, the feast of St. Lawrence. This being the first synod convened under the administration of Most Reverend Archbishop Seghers, and, we believe, the first one held in this city, much interest is manifested. Every priest of the archdiocese of Oregon City and of the vicariate apostolic of Idaho will be in attendance.

OREGON RESPONDS.

The following telegram sent on Wednesday last by his excellency, Gov. Thayer, to Gov. Chas. Foster of Ohio, in response to one received from him suggesting that a day of thanksgiving and praise be agreed upon for certain well known blessings, explains itself:

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
SALEM, OREGON, July 11, 1881.

To Hon. Charles Foster, Governor of Ohio—Columbus, Ohio:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your telegram, suggesting that it would be most fitting for the governors of the several states and territories to issue proclamations setting apart a day, to be generally agreed upon, for thanksgiving and praise to almighty God for the blessed deliverance of our president, and most gladly assent to the proposition therein contained.

Yours with great respect, W. W. THAYER,
Governor of Oregon.

STATE TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.

Fourth Day.

As per programme Prof. Allen occupied the morning hour at the Teachers' institute in the subject of orthography.

The instructor thinks that the teacher should not require pupils to memorize all that is in the geography text books, but only such parts as is known and used by men in the ordinary business life. In history he thought that the subject should be taught by topics rather than by lessons. The division of books into chapters was good for reference, but worthless for assigning lessons.

The afternoon session was occupied by Rev. J. N. Condit, who illustrated the subject by the use of blocks. His talk was instructing and interesting.

The programme of the evening was one which was arranged by the faculty of Miss Clane's [illegible]. Mrs. Ellis's paper on [illegible] [illegible] Miss [illegible] found she could not read the prelude, so the presentation was deferred till the next session.

Prof. C. H. Allen made a masterly argument in favor of the establishing and maintaining of normal schools.

The programme for to-day will consist of more [illegible] by Prof. Allen and composition of [illegible] and Miss [illegible] by Prof. [illegible] Hogan. In the afternoon [illegible] and general business will take the attention of the institute.

The thanks of the institute are due and tendered Prof. I. M. [illegible] who has given [illegible] [illegible] Taylor street church for the evening sessions of the institute.

NIGHT SCHOOLS.

The following address in relation from the Woman's Christian Temperance Union of this city was presented to the State Teachers' Association yesterday:

Ladies and Gentlemen:—[illegible] we have a right to be aware of the act that there are many children and young people in this city of a proper school age who are precluded by adverse circumstances from attending the public schools. [illegible] system of [illegible] instruction which is [illegible] at least a rudimentary English education within the reach of every child in that far falls short of its [illegible] purpose. A [illegible] enumeration of the children in the city who are unable to avail themselves of the advantages of the public schools places the number at about three hundred. Thank [illegible] who labor [illegible] to-day [illegible] and [illegible] with principles that shall be the quality than for all the after relations of life. Three hundred children borne down by a life of toil and thus prevented from sharing a useful and necessary instruction. We ask you as educators, as friends of humanity, as the best friends of the young, we ask you to join with us in presenting this earnest to the proper authorities, and pressing upon them the necessity of providing some agency by which those so serving class shall be presented with at least such educational advantages as properly a [illegible] night furnish.

But apart from these are others who, because of [illegible] and kindred reasons, are not fit subjects for admission to the instruction in ordinary schools. These are the young [illegible] that infest our streets, the young violators of law who are sometimes found before the courts and in our prisons. They furnish the criminals of society. Many of these could be saved from a life of crime and degradation if the proper means were used. Experience elsewhere has shown that this may be done only through the agency of reformatory or industrial schools. A brief examination of this subject must convince you, as it does us, of the urgent need of such an institution for this city and county. We have already laid our views before the city council and the county commissioners and have urged early action in the premises. We earnestly invite your cooperation. Let us not rest satisfied until all possible safeguards against ignorance and crime, with their direful consequences, are thrown around the youth of our fair city.

By order of the Woman's C. T. Union.

After some discussion of the subject the association adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That this association recommends the establishment of night schools in all districts where the wants of each demand them.

Resolved, That we also recommend the early establishment of a state reform school.

THE LOOKOUT OF THE WORLD.

[New York Sun.]

HARTFORD, June 27.—Desiring to get the opinion of that celebrated amateur astronomer, Mr. Samuel Langhorne Clemens, on the new comet, I visited his house this morning just before daybreak. His passion for the purpose of observing celestial phenomena is well known. I was confident that I should find him at his telescope in the turret that caps the northeast corner of his extraordinary mansion. A few well directed pebbles against the window. "Hello!" said he. "Come up; but don't wake the baby. Mind the sixth stair on the second flight. It sounds like a blast of a falsetto," saying [illegible] he [illegible] down his door key at the end of a string.

When I reached the turret my friend was [illegible] [illegible]. He was sitting in an open space [illegible] [illegible] shooting a chair. With [illegible] [illegible] a [illegible] pipe. When at [illegible] [illegible] I perceived that it was a fowling [illegible]. His face had a haggard look, and his [illegible] hung listlessly. [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] "You look tired, Mark," said I. "Have you been at it all night?"

"All night!" said he, with a groan that consisted of a vowel and two consonant sounds. "All night. This makes the fourth consecutive night that I haven't closed half an eye [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. This constant responsibility is undermining my constitution. My sense of duty is as strong as the next man's, but sometimes I feel like letting go my grip, even if the condemned planet slides into the revised version of brimstone. All night! Good gracious! Some other night."

There was a degree of exasperation in his tone which the circumstances did not seem to warrant. "Well," said I, "there's no occasion for anger. Nobody compels you to sit up here in the barbarous morning atmosphere and early dew."

He looked for a minute as if he was going to break out with a torrent of objurgation. Then he mastered his wrath and gazed down upon me with an expression of melancholy pity.

"The tail of that comet," said he, sadly, waving the end of his pole toward the northern sky, "is, according to my calculations, a trifle over 12,000,000 miles long; yet it wouldn't reach more than a quarter way through the skulls of some people that I know. The reckless ignorance of mankind amazes me more and more the older I grow. Why don't I go to bed? Yes, it would be a perfectly easy and natural thing to go to bed, wouldn't it, now? Perhaps I had better go to bed." And he laughed derisively.

"What in the name of common sense are you driving at, Clemens?" I demanded.

"Oh, nothing at all," he replied, with a sardonic wave of his pole. "Nothing, except that while the mad revelry of the world goes on below, and the multitude pursues its wonted avocations precisely as though a universal catastrophe was not imminent, one solitary watcher sits up here in his lonely tower braving danger and incurring great fatigue for the sake of his infatuated fellow beings. There have been examples of such devotion to duty in history but they are rare, and it has always been left to posterity to recognize them. At the present moment I fill the post of lookout to the planet, young man. You'll find set down in the census the exact number of fellow-beings whose existence depends upon my vigilance. That's all I'm driving at!"

I saw now pretty well how things were with my friend. So to humor him, I reverently remarked: "I always knew your philanthropy, Mark, yet I must say that this last undertaking surprises me."

He immediately became affable and even confidential. "There is a good deal of the true Christian spirit of self-denial in it, isn't there, now? You see, they are all wrong about the tail. I've ciphered on that tail until I understand every inch of it. It's absurd to suppose that the tail isn't solid, and pretty tough, too. Do you imagine that this comet could go rushing through space at the rate of 200 miles a minute without knocking the spots out of a tail that was vapor? To a fog bank on to the rear end of the New York and Boston fourth [illegible] express, start her off at even forty miles an hour, and see how long your fog bank will travel in company with your locomotive. Yet they ask us to swallow this infernal nonsense about the comet's tail. My observations of this fellow, and also of Coggia's comet, seven years ago, have convinced me that comets' tails are fastened on tight, and are of a ligneous and durable nature like Hartford beefsteak."

"And what do you propose to do with your pole?" I asked.

"Great Cæsar!" exclaimed he. "With a tail 12,000,000 miles long, 3,000,000 miles thick, and tough as whip leather, switching about in the wake of that erratic craft every time she [illegible] [illegible] don't you see that the safety of [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible] thing [illegible]."

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH IS OVER.

Business is quiet all over the city; but ISAAC BARMAN don't feel the effect of it.

THE REASONS ARE:

That he still continues to sell the immense stock of Clothing and Gent's Furnishing Goods, which he bought of Mr. A. MEYER at such very low figures, at prices that will astonish the closest buyer.

That his entire stock must be sold on or before the 1st day of September, in order to make room for his immense fall stock.

That he is offering Great Bargains, having reduced

Suits from $15 00 to $10 00
Suits from $17 50 to $12 50
Suits from $20 00 to $15 00
Suits from $22 50 to $17 50
Suits from $25 00 to $20 00

That he is offering his entire stock of Furnishing Goods at 75 cents on the dollar.

That he has marked down his entire stock of Scarfs and Ties at 50 cents on the dollar.

That he is compelled to raise money, and he will not let up, until he has it.

Make use of the opportunity before it is too late.

Avalanche: On Saturday last two Indians put in an appearance here, the first that have graced Silver City in three years. They were old timers in this section and well known to many, but did not receive a very cordial welcome from old friends. The Indians say they want to come back to the Silver City mountains and live, and make many promises to be good, but our people have little faith in them, and for their own good, as well as that of the whites, we urgently recommend that they be at once sent to the reservation where they belong. We have no desire to create an Indian scare, and at present there is not the least danger of an outbreak, but if a few are permitted to come in this summer more will follow next and it will not be long before we will again see enacted the bloody scenes of '77 and '78, and even the few who are now in the hills will not add to the peace of the situation of stock men, prospectors and others who are on the outskirts. It is quite certain that one, at least, of the two who came in to-day, participated in the late Bannock war and it is fear alone that makes them friendly. Were it not that some innocent persons would be almost certain to be killed, our people would make short work of the renegades and there is more danger from this source than any other. The feeling is so intensely bitter against them that it is almost certain one or two will take the responsibility of making a good Indian or two, and the balance will take revenge on some innocent white man at the first opportunity. These Indians are armed with the latest improved gun, and should be attended to at once.

OPEN LETTER FROM M. YOUNG, OF GERVAIS.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: My attention having been called to a "yellow poster," which is being circulated by the Wood's Walter A. Binder Agents, wherein my statement of the field trial of self-binding harvesters, which took place on my farm June 21st, is published [illegible]. I did not say that the Wood's Binder probably was a better binder than the other machines [illegible] with three horses. I did not say that the Wood's would not tie [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] work than the other two machines. LITERARY NOTES

M Zola is annoyed that Victor Hugo has become a religion in literature, a sort of [illegible] for the maintenance of order and [illegible] of his [illegible] artist; compares the poet with the philosopher [illegible], abusing the former and praising the latter [illegible].

James R Osgood & Co will issue very soon the first [illegible] series of books on the campaigns and battles of the war for the Union. The first volume consisting of several essays by different persons and edited by John C R [illegible] of Gen McClellan's Campaign on the Peninsula.

The forthcoming Midsummer Number of Scribner's will, it is said, contain some of the finest examples of American wood engraving which have ever appeared. An article entitled "By the Sea in Normandy" has been made the occasion of presenting a collection of pictures by such French and American artists as Butin, Bastien Lepage, F Perrin, Douglas Volk and Wm P W Dana. The frontispiece of the number is Butin's "Sailor's Wife," engraved by Closson. As promised in a former number, Bastien Lepage's "[illegible] Communion" is given here, the engraving being one of Cole's masterpieces. It is printed in the body of the magazine, without any type on the back.

Richard Grant White is [illegible] engaged on a critical and historical study of music in America, for which he has accumulated a large mass of material illustrating our musical annals for more than fifty years past. A student of music and a practical musician from his boyhood, he made his entrance into literature as an amateur critic of music, and is said to have been the first to introduce really true and scientific criticism of music into our journalism. Among American men of letters he is perhaps the only one who is both a writer of reputation and an accomplished musician. The knowledge of Mr White's project among musicians has already secured him proffers of aid from the most distinguished professors. An important part of his work—the history of opera in New York—will soon appear in a series of articles in Scribner's Monthly in which it will be illustrated by portraits of the principal artists who have appeared in America.

Transfers par

Wheat

THURSDAY EVENING July 14

Our regular weekly resume of the wheat market finds us again enforced to report it inactive here amounting almost to a suspension of business. The receipts for the past week of valley wheat have not aggregated a thousand sacks per day. This taken in connection with the fact that there are thousands of tons in interior warehouses proves that holders are very firm and indifferent. Buyers still quote at $1 55 per cental but it is doubtful if the offerings were free that so much could be realized. Harvest operations will begin in some favored localities next week and the ensuing week will witness very general harvest commencement all over the valley as well as Eastern Oregon and Washington territory. So far as we are apprised through the medium of our exchanges and inquiry of individuals it is safe to assume that the valley will have an average crop but not so good an outturn in winter wheat as last year and a probable diminution of yield in consequence. But withal the difference will probably not be material. Eastern Oregon and Washington territory are now fully assured of a promising crop and our estimate for shipments made two weeks ago of 200 000 tons ex the Columbia river is no exaggeration.

Growing crops throughout the valley and Southern Oregon need sunshine very much and the bright weather which now seems to be promised is very welcome.

Wool

The wool market, since our last report has been quiet though buyers show more disposition for business the past few days. Choice eastern Oregon wools meet ready sale at 23@24c while inferior qualities coarse and heavy are not wanted and are difficult to sell. There seems little demand for valley wool. Several lots of from 10 000 to 15 000 pounds each have been offered here during the week but we cannot learn of any sales of lots of considerable size.

Bags

Under the concentration made by capitalists in San Francisco sacks have continued to stiffen in value and are held at the same price there as here. They may now be quoted at 10¾@11c for Calcutta and 9¾@10c for Oaklands with an advancing tendency.

Freights.

The freight market continues very firm and spot charters of iron at 65 shillings and wooden at 58s 6d for U K have been effected within the week last past. Charters for future arrival are very firm and are quotable at 80 shillings for August and September, 77s 6d for October and November and [illegible] for December. We learn of charters for nitrates from the west coast at 60 shillings which is a better relative value than our quotations from here and which will serve to keep freights steady from here for some time to come as the accumulations of nitrates are said to be very large and pressing for shipment.

The Real Estate Market

The following special report of the real estate market is furnished THE OREGONIAN by J [illegible] Fred Clark real estate agent:

The transactions of the past week number [illegible] the aggregate amount being $39 334 which can but be regarded as satisfactory when it is remembered that the public mind has been exercised both by the presidential catastrophe and the city election fiasco. Under such circumstances an average week's business was more than was expected especially at a season when many of Portland's active operators are taking their summer vacation at the various resorts of pleasure and health seekers. Referring to our record and report of the corresponding week of last year we find 35 deeds amounting to $24 [illegible] 37 being five more transactions aggregating however nearly $15 000 less than the business of the past week. The improvement of the city is progressing rapidly. In no year in the history of Portland have so many new facilities to locomotion been attempted or so many sanitary works constructed. The advancement of street making is more especially apparent as in the western part of Couch's addition where a year ago were but a few houses and a wilderness of stumps of young firs now are seen new cut streets in every direction and still the work of cutting and filling goes on. Here too are quite a number of fine residences in course of erection, notably those of Messrs Geo Weidler, Chas Bacon and Geo N James, all of which are handsome additions to the appearance of the neighborhood. Nor are improvements confined to that locality. In every part of the city the screech of the saw and the blow of the hammer may be heard.

The transactions of the last week as shown by the county records were distributed as follows:

	Deeds
County and suburban	11	$ 4103
City	7	17 4[illegible]0
East Portland	3	4001
Cementary	1	00
Couch	[illegible]	7700
Caruthers and southward	5	6920

Home Produce Market.

Flour is dull. Stocks continue large. Oats are cheaper owing to decline in San Francisco which we foreshadowed last week. Prices asked here are actually above San Francisco quotations. Hay is extremely dull owing to large stocks on hand. Mill feed is firm. Shoulders are scarce and higher. Lard is extremely scarce and prices have advanced materially. This market is relying upon California almost entirely for its supply of lard. What to do with dried fruit will soon be a serious conundrum with our commission merchants. Stocks are still accumulating and there is no prospect whatever of improvement either in demand or price. Hides are firm at quotations. Receipts of choice dairy butter have fallen off slightly and prices are very firm. Receipts of country store lots are large and sales are slow. Onions are cheaper owing to large importations from California. Receipts of eggs during the past week have been very large and stocks have somewhat accumulated. Under these circumstances the present quotations cannot hold good very long. We look for a marked decline before the end of next week. Choice factory cheese is in good demand. Oregon green fruits are now commencing to arrive and California importations will soon cease. Chickens find ready sale at quotations. Receipts are moderate and not in excess of the demand. Salmon in half barrels are scarce and wanted. Receipts of new potatoes are increasing and prices have declined. Following are quotations:

SAN FRANCISCO MARKETS.

Review of the Produce and Merchandise Markets, Specially Reported and Telegraphed to The Oregonian.

SAN FRANCISCO July 14

Although yesterday was [illegible] and therefore an unfavorable day [illegible] in merchandise of any kind [illegible] market was in better form than for some time past. Sales at 42½ per cental for choice No 1 shipping, were reported and the aggregate business shows that purchasers were buying freely. Offerings of choice wheat were lighter than for [illegible] insignificant. Barley was strong, and [illegible] at an advance of 2½ cents for choice grades. Other descriptions were in moderate demand at steady rates. Corn and oats were without change.

The freight market was dull [illegible] demand for vessels has partially subsided since the arrivals noted of late.

The bag market advanced another point [illegible] Combination rates have been [illegible] at 10¼ for local manufacture and imported [illegible]

Refinery rates [illegible] grades. Syrup [illegible] Large sales of salmon have been made within the past few days at $1 [illegible] on the river for choice brands. The market remains very firm. Sale of 100 flasks of quicksilver is reported at [illegible] cents per pound.

Ladies

Do you want a pure, blooming Complexion? If so, a few applications of Hagan's MAGNOLIA BALM will gratify you to your heart's content. It does away with Sallowness, Redness, Pimples, Blotches, and all diseases and imperfections of the skin. It overcomes the flushed appearance of heat, fatigue and excitement. It makes a lady of THIRTY appear but TWENTY; and so natural, gradual, and perfect are its effects, that it is impossible to detect its application.

45 Years Before the Public

THE GENUINE

DR. C. McLANE'S

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis or Liver Complaint

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative, they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated. Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine McLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. McLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. McLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.
